Project Objectives:

This EMECW project, involving twenty prestigious European and Chinese universities (10+10), aims at sharing knowledge and understanding between Europe and China. The objective is to create a partnership in research and education that will strengthen ties between the two regions. The Consortium was formed and its members selected in relation to the thematic fields for the programme. Priority will be given to environmental issues, public health, social security, innovation, and human rights, as these fields are of special importance in China today. The goal for the project is to establish long-lasting structures such as research cooperation, joint programmes, and cooperation in innovation processes. During the mobility periods, students and staff will take an active part in both academic and social activities of the host institution. This will create inter-cultural encounters and enrich the participating institutions and their wider environment, both during and after the mobility period.

Brief description:

The Consortium will establish mobility of 203 individuals from leading Chinese and European universities. The ten European partners are located in nine different countries throughout Europe (Austria, France, Germany, Great Britain, Ireland, Netherlands, Poland, Spain, and Sweden). The ten Chinese partners are distributed across that country, covering seven province.
